DALMATIANS—Shown here is John Holland, foreman of the White Oak Motor Repair Shop, and his two Dalmatians. The Dalmatian is a white dog with large black spots on both body and face. This dog is born perfectly white, and the spots do not appear for three or four days. The Dalmatian is an outstanding show dog in obedience and field trials. The English has called him the carriage dog or the first-house dog. His uses have been many, ranging from shepherding through field sports and vermin killing, but his main honors have come in road trials for which his fair speed and great stamina fit him admirably. His natural love for horses has also proved to be an asset along this line. These dogs are from 19 to 23 inches high and weigh from 35 to 50 pounds. They derive their name from Dalmatia, a province of Austria, where they gained distinction as a dog of war. Mr. Holland has trained these two dogs himself and it is a treat to see them perform. Anyone wishing to see them go through their acts is welcome to visit Mr. Holland at his home on the old Reidsville Road just opposite Brightwood Baptist Church. The North Greensboro Kennel Club is making tentative plans to begin an obedience class February 15. Those who would like to enroll may contact Ray Tugman, White Oak YMCA.

Dr. F. P. Wise Speaks To Kennel Club

Dr. F. P. Wise, veterinarian, spoke to the North Greensboro Kennel Club last Tuesday night at the White Oak YMCA. He spoke on parasites found in dogs and brought examples of some that he had extracted from various animals.

Afterwards a question and answer period was held and Dr. Wise advised the members on problems with which they had been confronted.

Starting Monday night, February 16, the club will hold an obedience training course. It will be under the direction of Mr. W. W. Swink. Sixteen classes will be held on each Monday and Thursday of every week. They will be held at the White Oak YMCA and will start at 7:00 p.m. each night. Requirements to be enrolled in this course are that you must be a member of the North Greensboro Kennel Club and that you have subscribed to Dog World Magazine.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the club and entering these classes can contact Everett Swaney, Proximity Plant; J. L. Ritter, Revolution Plant; J. W. Ritter, Revolution Rayon; Winfred Cates, White Oak Office, or Ray Tugman, White Oak Y.

AN ITEMIZED APPRAISAL

A letter of inquiry which Lincoln received about the financial status of a ne'er-do-well was answered as follows:

"Yours of the 10th received. First of all, he has a wife and baby; together they ought to be worth $500,000 to any man. Secondly, he has an office in which there is a table worth $1.50 and three chairs worth, say, $1. Last of all, there is in one corner a large rat-whole which will bear looking into."

A SMALL "NUBBIN"

Lincoln once had an appointment to meet a committee of which Alexander Stephens was a member. It was a raw spring day, and Stephens, a very small man, was wearing several extra wraps when he arrived. Lincoln observed him in the process of removing several coats and after the last overcoat had been removed the President hid to Secretary Seward. "Well, I've in a corn country all my life, but I never saw before so many

Y., who continue to serve as vice-presidents, with Joseph E. Hoels, association secretary, as treasurer.

In his annual report to the membership Mr. Cone stated: "We realize the effects of the transition to a very definite buyer's market have increased our problems. Some of our friends have gone out of business, some have changed ownership, others have changed in other ways. There has been a considerable relocation in 1952, and some of us have found the cross-currents stronger than in many years. Special technical problems multiplied. Price problems are always difficult in the kind of markets we have experienced."

"Fortunately, volume has been reasonably good, and is expected to continue reasonably good, provided there is no material change in the volume required for the

NEW REMINDER—R. B. Stacy, Jr., employee on the first shift in the Weaving Department at White Oak, looks over the new reminder to employees that they are invited to make helpful suggestions to the company.

Slasher Employees' Suggestion Explained In Trade Magazine

A better method for handling yarn suggested by Roy Anderson and Ralph Medley, both employees in the White Oak Plant Weave Room, is written up in the current issue of Textile Industries. As explained in a previous issue of The Textorian, these employees designed a new type of truck and special racks for carrying cheeses to the slasher creels. They submitted their idea to the Cone Mills suggestion system and were awarded a check in appreciation of their efforts.

The article states: "The salvage yarns which go through the slashers at White Oak... are taken from cheeses mounted on creels on the slashers. These cheeses are brought down from the winding room on a special truck.

"The truck which was used until a few months ago was a four-wheel, flat-bed truck with a series of pipes mounted vertically on the bed. Cheeses were stacked on these pipes, and were held securely in transit. However, on reaching the slasher room, unloading was awkward. The operator had to lift the cheeses off the supporting pipes and carry them in his arms to the creels on the slasher. The cheeses frequently slipped and fell during

The Flannelette of Fashion

(The following is one of a series of write-ups on Cone fabrics which appears in the brochure recently published by Cone Mills Inc., New York.)

FLANNELETTE: Plain or twill weave cotton, characterized by a softly napped surface, in solid colors, prints or woven stripes.

One of the most striking transformations in modern textiles is the completeness with which Cone Velveteen® changed the Old Flannelette into a sophisticated sleepwear fashion—and changed a nation's sleepwear habits.

Cone Velveteen® is a far cry indeed from the strictly utilitarian winter nightwear of fifty years ago when one chose style OR comfort. Revolutionary improvements in construction, finish and precision printing resulted in a new warmth-without-bulk fabric possessing desirable draping and clear-printing qualities, a soft, evenly covered napped surface; the original Fashion Fabric for Frosty Nights.

Beautiful and still more beautiful patterns have, season after season, enhanced the fashion-appeal and fame of Cone Velveteen®. Florals with fresh loveliness, endless smart stripe variations, charming juvenile designs, prints to please every member of the family. Cone further developed a comprehensive range of solid vat colors, to be used alone or with harmonizing prints... all of practical, washable vat-fastness.

This creative Cone styling in turn inspired nightwear manufacturers to produce more and more attractive popular-priced gowns and pajamas for men, women and children; thereby appreciably extending the healthful benefits of comfortable winter sleepwear, and extending the retail selling season as well.

Cone Velveteen® is also sold by the-yard and is a favorite with homemakers who like to sew their own good-looking economical anti-sniffle sleepwear for all the family.

Must Understand

The entire world is anxiously awaiting the result of the developments which have followed and will continue to follow the important decision made by President Eisenhower in connection with Formosa.

It now appears that another decision is in the making. There is some divided opinion as to whether we should blockade the Red China coast to prevent shipments going to the Communists which would enable them to better promote their plans against us and the United Nations in the Korean conflict.

Some critical reaction in the European countries followed the Fleet announcement by President Eisenhower. We have an idea that much greater reaction would follow an announcement that we would blockade the China coast. It is generally agreed that step would contain considerably more dynamite than the removal of the Seventh Fleet.

It is easy to see why the European viewpoint differs considerably from that of our country. In the first place, it is mostly American blood that is being spilled in Korea. There is little European blood being sacrificed in what has appeared to be an endless conflict. Even Anthony Eden, addressing Parliament, recognized the difference and requested a more sympathetic understanding of our viewpoint.

Great Britain is naturally very much concerned over the status of Hongkong which means much to her. It has been truly said that the Communists could take over Hongkong without too much trouble. The reason that they have not made that aggressive step is no doubt because it is felt that the political value of Hongkong being in British hands is far greater than the possession of that territory by the Communists. The very fact that Great Britain desires to keep control over Hongkong and that it can be taken by the Communists adds greatly to a political advantage that the Communists enjoy. Russia is very anxious to create rifts between the United States and England. If in protection of our interest we advocate measures that might lead to Red occupation of Hongkong a rift might follow. With Hongkong gone, that major danger of a rift would fade and that would be disappointing to the Communists.

The English are also doing a profitable business with Red China. They need foreign trade and as much of it as they can get for their entire economy is to a major extent dependent upon foreign trade. Naturally, Great Britain does not want to lose any of her foreign business.

It is very doubtful that a continuation of our present United Nations' policies, insofar as Red China is concerned, will prevent war. It may be that eventually war is more likely by a continuation of present policies. We doubt that anyone but Stalin himself has the answer.

It is believed that the American people as a whole are willing to subscribe to changes in the situation, even if there is some hazard connected. The stalemate which now exists in Korea is not strengthening this country and is sapping the youth of the United States. Mothers and fathers have every right to be discouraged over the Korean situation. The young men of the country who are anxious to become good American citizens following the pursuits they choose are discouraged over the future prospects.

We do not believe that the administration should take undue risks, but we do believe that it is their duty and responsibility to try every means possible to remedy the present hopeless situation in Korea and that the Europeans must be brought to understand. It is a general belief now that those countries in Europe will be a little bit more appreciative of the American viewpoint than they were before. A positive approach to bringing about this understanding and a policy planned for the Far Eastern situation is a responsibility backed by a mandate of the people expressed in the last election.

LISTEN AMERICANS!

... by George S. Benson

President of Harding College

F. Gano Chance, president of A. B. Chance Company, spoke at the Harding College Freedom Forum XIII on a panel with Keith Claxton, president of the Chance Company IUE-CIO local. The thinking and attitude he expressed are, I think, fairly typical of the thinking and attitude of most American industrialists today.

"I want a good home for my wife and two boys," he said. "I want them to enjoy the feeling of security that is woven about a secure home. I want my family to have good health and a sound education backed by a firm belief in Almighty God. Most of all, I want freedom for them, an opportunity to work, to worship, to study, to listen, to speak, to grow, to develop, to own, to receive and to be a help to others."

"My over-all objective is to leave this world better than I found it. I believe this requires rendering service to others. Our obligations and our responsibilities must grow as we grow."

"The president or manager of a business these days is standing on a four-legged stool, the legs represented by customers, employees, stockholders, and the public. For our customers I want us to produce a better product than our competitors, or one as good at a lower price."

"For employees, I want the same things that I want for myself and my family. For them, I want our company to progress and grow, so those who want to put forth extra effort may have more opportunity for better jobs and building of their personal security. This is one of the deepest satisfactions I can have."

"For the stockholders who invest their money so that we may have tools with which to produce, I want us to earn enough to pay them adequate dividends for the use of their money. They are the enterprisers. In the community, I want our company, and the people who work for the company, to be leaders and carry their share of the load in building a better town. I want us to be good neighbors and a positive force in setting an example of a typical American business in a free competitive society."

"In human relations, my ideal would be to have our over-all relationship and our incentives so constituted that every employee would feel that he was working for himself, just as though he were in business for himself. . . . At Chance Company we have made some progress in that direction."

If this be the viewpoint and attitude of American businessmen—and I think that it is for the vast majority—then employees and employers surely can harmonize their desires and thus make the American system produce vastly more for the benefit of all. Write Harding College for the full text of the Chance Company management-labor presentation on teamwork, available at 10 cents.

Pythian Echoes

by R. Cole Lee

Absent from our city for the past several days was Pythian W. B. Burke and wife who drove to Providence, Rhode Island, to attend the funeral services of Mrs. Burke's sister. Reported last meeting night on the ailing list was Pythian Millard Leonard. We hope that he will be able to be back with us at the next assembly of the fellows. Just a word here please about Millard. He is one of the most attentive members of the Lodge and a very active one, too. No trivial excuses keep him away from his duty every Monday evening from his Lodge unless he is sick. Personally, I think the best compliment anyone can pay another is that he is dependable and faithful. Like the rest of us, he is not perfect but we cannot help but notice and admire his good traits. Take it easy, "ole boy," and come out when you can.

The banquet committee made their report to the Lodge Monday evening. According to their report it will be well worthwhile to get that ticket now and be present on February 21st. If you don't, well, you will be the loser. Tickets can be purchased from any member of the committee with Pythian Ray Payne as chairman.

We are happy to welcome through transfer from Martinsburg, Virginia, Pythian Harry Smaltz. Mr. Smaltz has just moved to our city and from his remarks of last evening I feel confident he will make a worthy contribution to Pythianism through our Lodge.

Several of the boys drove to North Wilkesboro last Friday to attend a special gathering at which time C. E. Flowers relinquished his post as Royal Vixier to the new official, G. Sam Winters. For Pythian Flowers' faithful term he was awarded a silk yellow tassel to be worn with distinction upon his feze.

We are glad to report that Mrs. W. A. Ross has returned to her home and through the kindness of the Pythian Lodge is now able to motivate by means of a wheel chair about her home. Mrs. Ross lives in front of the little Memorial Presbyterian Church on the McKnight Mill Road. A visit from you would help immensely. By the way, when down in that part of the world how about stopping in and seeing Mrs. Wharton also. She as you perhaps remember likewise fell and broke her hip. Both of these women are lovely folks and I am sure that you would receive as much of a blessing as they should you take the time to call on them.

Speaking of the little church, how about meeting you next Sunday a 9:45 a.m. at Sunday School. Although denominationally I am different, still I consider this little church a mighty force for good in our community. I have attended others, but for harmony, friendliness, freedom, extraordinary goodness, freedom, extraordinary goodness, will this little Memorial Church is hard to beat. Come on down Sunday at the above time, we shall be most happy to have you. Get in the habit certainly of attending Sunday School somewhere every Sunday.

Boys and girls, you still have till March 1 to enter the essay contest. Topic is "My Favorite Character."

Careless drivers are too often starting something they can't stop.

Thoughts On The Business Of Life

I am one of those people optimistic enough to believe in the future of democracy. No matter how widely we may have departed from the practice of democracy, no matter how many failures we may have had as a nation, it is a conviction to me that it is something too precious to make it a matter of any light moment that those things should be discarded.—Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase

Great minds have purposes, others have wishes.—Washington Irving

Dreamers and doers—the world generally divides men into those two general classifications—but the world is often wrong. There are men who win the admiration and respect of their fellow men. They are the men worthwhile. Dreaming is just another name for thinking, planning, devising another way of saying that a man exercises his soul. A steadfast soul, holding steadily to a dream ideal, plus a sturdy will determined to succeed in any venture, can make any dream come true. Use your mind and your will. They work together for you beautifully if you'll only give them a chance.—B. N. Mills

Quality isn't something that can be argued into an article or promised into it. It must be put there. If it isn't put there, the finest sales talk in the world won't act as a substitute.—C. G. Campbell

The man who lives for himself is a failure. Even if he gains much wealth, position or power he still is a failure. The man who lives for others has achieved true success. A rich man who consecrates his wealth and his position to the good of humanity is a success. A poor man who gives of his service and his sympathy to others has achieved true success even though material prosperity or outward honors never come to him.—Norman Vincent Deal, D.D.

When young men are beginning life, the most important period, it is often said, is that in which their habits are formed. That is a very important period. But the period in which the ideas of the young are formed and adopted is more important still. For the ideal with which you go forward to measure things determines the nature, so far as you are concerned, of everything you meet.—Henry Ward Beecher

With the proper flow of commerce across the borders of all countries it is unnecessary for soldiers to march across those borders.—Thomas J. Watson

Deliberate with caution, but act with decision; and yield with graciousness, or oppose with firmness.—Charles Hole and will eventually be self-supporting.

In many other ways the local YMCA has done much here in Seoul since the war started to carry out the mission of the YMCA. In fact, it is my observation that the activities actually go far beyond those normally expected of the organizations in the U. S.

In my opinion, the local YMCA director, Mr. Hyun, is obtaining outstanding results with pitifully inadequate support in the form of funds and materials. Certainly the local YMCA is exerting a tremendous influence for good in this war damaged city as it slowly struggles to carry out a rehabilitation program. You certainly can feel a justifiable pride in the Seoul branch of the YMCA.

LINCOLN HUMOR

LINCOLN'S "CERTIFICATE OF MORAL CHARACTER"

When Lincoln left Springfield, Illinois, for Washington to assume his duties as President, his inaugural address was placed in a satchel which was to be guarded with extra attention. It was placed in the care of the President-elect's oldest son, Robert.

Somehow it was lost, and with deep concern Lincoln approached one of his bodyguards and said, "Lamon, I guess I have lost my certificate of moral character, written by myself. Bob has lost the gripsack containing my inaugural address."

Another search was made which led to the baggage room. Upon arriving there, Lincoln observed a bag which he thought was his, but upon opening it found a soiled shirt, some paper collars and a bottle of whiskey. However, later on the satchel was discovered in a pile of baggage, and once again the first inaugural address was safely in the hands of its author.

This incident caused much merriment after the satchel was found and of course it reminded Lincoln of a story. He said: "I once knew a fellow who saved up fifteen hundred dollars, and had placed it in a private banking establishment. The bank soon failed, and he afterwards received ten per cent of his investment. He then took his one hundred and fifty dollars and deposited it in a savings bank, where he was sure it would be safe. In a short time this bank also failed, and he received at the final settlement ten per cent on the amount deposited. When the fifteen dollars was paid over to him, he held it in his hand and looked at it thoughtfully, then he said: 'Now darn you! I have got you reduced to a portable shape, so I'll put you in my pocket.'"

Suited the action to the word, Mr. Lincoln took his address from the bag and carefully placed it in the inside pocket of his vest, but held on to the satchel with as much interest as if it still contained his "certificate of moral character" written by himself.

Mr. Hamer congratulated the winners and stated that the only way to learn to be a good citizen is to practice being a good citizen. He then discussed the qualifications for which the winners were chosen.

Curt May presided over the meeting and made timely remarks concerning the awards. He then gave the parents of the winners an opportunity to speak. Several of them expressed their gratitude for the work of the YMCA in the local communities.

"The new truck is a double decker and instead of having vertical pipes mounted on the truck bed, the uprights are mounted in groups of three on separate boards. To unload the truck, the operator picks up a board at a time and carries the mounted cheeses to the creels. The cheeses cannot fall off the boards and the operator can carry more cheeses with greater ease than with the old system. The new method is, in other words, easier on both the operator and the cheeses."
